Sees New Eastern Railroad Empire

Alliance Viewed as Step in Battle For Rail Supremacy East of Mississippi—Wheeling Was Boosted to New High of 130.

New York, Feb. 9 (AP).—A new eastern railroad empire, born of the stock market turmoil in which the New York Central, the Baltimore and Ohio, and the Nickel Plate roads obtained control of the Wheeling and Lake Erie and the Western Maryland systems, was forecast here today.

The New York Herald-Tribune news the alliance of the three roads as one of the steps in a battle, sponsored by J. P. Morgan & Company and George F. Baker, chairman of the First National Bank board, and dominant figure in New York Central, against L. F. Loree and the Pennsylvania for rail supremacy of the territory east of the Mississippi.

Predictions of the mammoth consolidation were heard after another frenzied climb in rail stocks on the New York Exchange yesterday. Efforts of short interests to cover on commitments boosted Wheeling and Lake Erie 35 points to a new high record of 130. The stock closed at 100 after a day's turnover of 5,500 shares.

The premium of seven per cent on borrowed stock prevailing as the market closed, described as the predicament of shorts, the Times says, "unmistakable evidence of a corner developed and Wall Street abandoned the pretty pretense which it had kept up for days by referring to the stringency as a technical corner."

The new powers in Wheeling and Lake Erie are constituent members of a group of roads penetrating to every industrial center of importance in the east and connecting all the major land and water gateways of the territory.

The new combine, the Herald-Tribune asserts, boasts 35,000 miles and an aggregate capitalization of $3,650,000,237, and "transcends the dreams of those ambitious railroad builders of another generation, E. H. Harriman and James J. Hill."

Snow and Sleet In Middlewest

Heavy Blanket of Snow Also Covers Portion of Southwest Territory—Thermometers Forced to Sub-zero Marks.

Kansas City, Feb. 9 (AP).—Snow and sleet swept out of the Rocky Mountain region today on a five state front, bringing freezing temperatures to the middlewest and southwest after more than a week of mild winter weather.

Starting in Canada Sunday, the storm moved southward through Montana, Wyoming and Colorado, leaving a heavy blanket of snow and forcing thermometers to sub-zero marks. Preceded by sharp drops in temperature, the cloud banks rolled slowly over the Dakotas, Nebraska, Kansas and Oklahoma yesterday to cover the southern part of this section with two or more inches of snow or sleet.

Snow continued in Kansas and parts of Missouri and Oklahoma today with the mercury varying from 15 to 30 degrees above zero. Rain or mist was general in northern Texas with Abilene reporting a temperature of 34 above at midnight as compared to 64 at noon yesterday.

Although freezing temperatures were forecast for the middlewest today, a return to higher marks was promised for tomorrow due to the passing of the sub-zero surge in the mountain states.

Motorists stranded in the eastern Utah desert since Friday today were being hauled to farm highways by teams. The automobiles were mired after a thaw. Several women and children were reported to be suffering from exposure.

Mayor Dempsey Names Committee

Mayor Dempsey has appointed as an executive committee to consider and recommend to the larger committee of all the religious, official and social organizations of the city, a program for the sesquicentennial celebration in July, the following citizens:

Judge A. T. Clearwater, Admiral F. J. Higginson, Edward Keeneland, Judge G. D. B. Hasbrouck, Judge John G. Van Etten, Philip Elting, John D. Schoonmaker, Arthur McCausland, Everett Fowler, Walter F. Crane, Dr. George F. Chandler, Roscoe Irwin.

Bishop Manning Will Not Debate

Denver, Colo., Feb. 9 (AP).—Declaring "the moral standards given to the world by Christ are not open to debate," Bishop William T. Manning of the Protestant Episcopal Church, New York city, today notified Judge Ben B. Lindsey of the Denver juvenile court he would not debate him on the issue, "Can the present marriage code be improved?"

Bishop Manning stated Judge Lindsey's teachings "would not lead forward but backward to those conditions which destroyed the old pagan world." He added that Judge Lindsey's "temporary so-called companionate marriage is not a marriage, but only another name for free love."

FREE ADVERTISING BIG HELP TO FORD

Washington, Feb. 9 (AP).—Family jokes and stage puns about Ford's "divers" were reckoned among the intangible assets of the Ford Motor Company by George Lindsey, New York banker, who testified at today's hearing in the government's suit for additional taxes on Ford stock transferred by James C. Cox, Dodge Brothers and other minority holders, to Henry Ford in 1919.

The amount of free advertising given the Ford car was a big help in popularizing it, said Lindsey.

In view of the steady progression in earnings and the company's outlook for rapid increase in sales, backed by skilled management and sound financial management, he believed the stock on March 1, 1919, was worth from $10.000 to $12.000 a share.

"Ford was decidedly in a class by himself, and there was a tendency to put Ford on one side and automobiles on the other," said Lindsey.

Motion of Part Court. The Court of the Probation, Fort Worth, was held Tuesday evening with Judge and interested counsel.

Wants Reformers' Charter Revoked

Assemblyman Hackenburg. Declares Usefulness of Self-Constituted Reformers Is Past—Seeks To Revoke Charter of Suppression of Vice Society.

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 9 (AP).—Declaring that the time of the usefulness of self constituted reformers is past, Assemblyman Frederick L. Hackenburg, Democrat of New York, seeks to revoke the charter of the New York Society for the Suppression of Vice in a bill prepared for introduction in the Legislature today.

"Comstockism and Sumnerism," Mr. Hackenburg said, in a statement, "have made us ridiculous in the eyes of the world. For 51 years, under enormous powers, which the Legislature never should have granted to a private society, including the right to summon to its aid the entire police force of the city of New York and the privilege to retain one-half of the fines collected by them, the members of the society have injected themselves into everybody's business and stuck their noses into the affairs of the entire nation."

"If a criminal law is broken, the constituted authorities should proceed toward enforcement and an important matter like that should not be left to the initiative of a privately controlled and personally prejudiced group of individuals."

"All censorship and all official interference are repugnant to the spirit of our government. America today has grown out of its swaddling clothes, and the time of the usefulness of self constituted reformers constitutes morality is over. I am going to press my bill to final determination."

Newspapers Play Important Part

The Public Looks First to Newspapers for Information—Associated Press Has 80,000 Men Watching for News.

New York, Feb. 9 (AP).—A day without a newspaper would be an inconvenience, and a week without a newspaper would be a catastrophe, Fred A. Walker of the New York Telegram, and Chairman of the Publishers' Association of New York city, told the Broadway Association at luncheon today.

Whatever happens, the public looks first to newspapers for information, and this is the greatest tribute that can be paid to the truthfulness and accuracy of the daily press, he said.

"Some people unkindly and untruthfully cast reflections on the dependability of the news as it is printed; yet those who have to do with the making of the newspapers and those who have a real acquaintance with the details of news gathering and distribution know that there is no activity of the human race in which speed and quantity are factors that is so accurately performed as the collecting of the world's news and its distribution through newspaper columns."

The Associated Press, said Mr. Walker, "puts at your disposal the world wide news gathering activities of what is in many ways the greatest and most complex organization the world has ever known. Eighty thousand men located in every part of the inhabited world are watching with never ending vigilance for news for you."

Governor Smith Has Union Card

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 9 (AP).—Governor Smith has a union card.

The ticket giving him a life membership in the International Steam and Operating Engineers, Local No. 166, permitted him to break ground today for the state's new 32 story office building.

The shovel, however, was not one of silver customarily reserved for such occasions. It was steel, carved in the working end of a steam shovel.

Legislative leaders, members of the governor's cabinet, Mayor Thatcher, city officials and representatives of civic organizations crowded the docks early so that they might be on hand to watch the ceremony at the controls of the digger. A line along one side of the lot west of the Capitol was reserved so that the public might catch a glimpse.

The Sella Construction Company of Buffalo, which has the general contract, planned to start the job at once.

Transport Not to Run Next Sunday

Transport will be withdrawn from service on next Sunday, February 12. The taxi road will be operated on the regular ferry time table for the accommodation of ferry passengers only.

It is expected that the repairs will be completed and full ferry service resumed on Monday night.

Borah Approves Testing Wet Issue In Convention

Senator Borah Agrees With Dr. Butler That Prohibition Should Be Considered at 1928 Convention—Discussion of Coolidge Renomination Brings Reply from Former Cabinet Officer.

Washington, Feb. 9 (AP).—Prohibition and the question whether President Coolidge will run again in 1928 apparently are in for considerable discussion before the 1928 conventions as a result of developments growing out of an address in New York by Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler.

In agreeing with Dr. Butler that the dry issue is here and must be met, Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho, has announced his willingness to "cooperate in every way I can" to force the issue to a final showdown at the Republican National Convention next year.

The view taken by the president of Columbia University that a President who has twice taken the oath of office should be considered as having served two terms has provoked a reply from Leslie M. Shaw, Roosevelt's secretary of the treasury, that the death of a President merely increases the duties but does not advance a vice president to the presidency. In the same address, Dr. Butler expressed the belief that President Coolidge, who succeeded to the presidency when President Harding died and who later was elected in his own right, would not be a candidate in 1928.

Insurgents at Oporto Surrender

Firing Continues in Lisbon With Many Casualties Reported—No Americans or Britishers Injured.

London, Feb. 9 (AP).—The insurgents at Oporto, northern Portugal, who rose against the Carmona dictatorship last week, have capitulated to the government forces, say official dispatches received here this afternoon.

Firing continues in Lisbon, however, and there have been many casualties in the fighting of the last three days. The dispatches give no assurance that no Americans or Britishers have been injured.

An indication that President Carmona's adherents are holding their own in Lisbon is seen in special dispatches saying that all cable and wireless stations are in the hands of the government.

An Evening News despatch from Vigo, Spain, says sixty were killed and several hundred wounded during the fighting at Oporto. The city was occupied yesterday afternoon when the revolutionaries there surrendered.

Owners Oppose Grade Elimination

Property Owners of Town of Middletown, Delaware County, Believe Cost of Eliminating Railroad Grade Crossing Would Be Excessive.

A hearing before Edward A. Governor, public service commission examiner, was held at the court house Tuesday afternoon on the application for the elimination of the U. & D. grade crossing at Arkville, Delaware county. H. H. Flemming appeared for the U. & D. Delaware Railroad; George Speenburgh for the town of Middletown in which the elimination is proposed and William D. Brinner, Jr., and Kerens V. Elsworth of Brinner, Canfield and Elsworth, appeared for certain property owners along the proposed route.

Mr. Greenbaugh appeared for the state engineer's office and testified to the cost of the elimination. The engineer estimated the cost at $139,000 with $2,000 additional if allowed to carry for one more track.

Mr. Brinner and Mr. Elsworth appearing for property owners opposed the elimination on the grounds that if the cost of elimination exceeds one-tenth of one per cent of the total assessed valuation of the town of Middletown that the elimination can not take place. The town of Middletown is assessed for $5,500,000. The cost of elimination under the law would be borne by the town, state and railroad with the town and state paying 25 per cent each of the cost and the railroad the remaining 50 per cent.

Residents of the town oppose the elimination on the grounds that the town's share would be excessive.

Transport Not to Run Next Sunday

Transport will be withdrawn from service on next Sunday, February 12. The taxi road will be operated on the regular ferry time table for the accommodation of ferry passengers only.

It is expected that the repairs will be completed and full ferry service resumed on Monday night.

Facts Clearly Indicate Murder

Only Part of Skeleton Was Found at Toga; Coroner Finds—Troopers Continue Search For Remains of Corpses.

Corning, N. Y., Feb. 9 (AP).—Official investigation in the finding of the skeleton near Toga, Pa., made yesterday by Pennsylvania state troopers, disclosed facts that clearly indicate that murder was committed and the body dismembered, part of it being buried beneath the floor in the G.H. Reynolds farmhouse.

Coroner W. K. White, of Wellsboro, Pa., who is cooperating with the troopers, stated today that instead of the entire skeleton being found, only one leg and one thigh were recovered from their burial place, there being no bones from the remainder of the body.

He said the hole in the floor was about a foot square through which no body could be forced, and the carpenter work had been neatly done.

Over the bones were found several Philadelphia newspapers with the dates from 1904 to 1907.

The bones failed to reveal the sex or age, Dr. White said, but it was his opinion that they were those of a young boy or girl. What has been done with the remainder of the bones, is still more of a mystery, but the troopers intend to make a thorough search of the property in hopes of finding them.

Evidence of time on the bones, used to exterminate the body, would have to be definitely established, Dr. White said, through a chemical analysis which is to be made at once. That there was some violence is indicated in the leg bone which had been broken or split.

Foreign Debt Body Expires

World War Foreign Debt Commission Ended Today—France's Hopes For Modification Dimmed—Settlements With 15 Nations.

Washington, Feb. 9 (AP).—The World War Foreign Debt Commission expired today, dimming hopes France may entertain for modification of the Mellon-Berenger agreement.

White House has indicated unofficially it might seek modification of the $1,025,000,000 settlement. Secretary Mellon, chairman of the debt commission, holds that the deal is closed and any further negotiations would have to be taken up with Congress. The House has already approved the agreement, but the Senate is awaiting ratification by the French Parliament.

In its five years of existence the bi-partisan commission concluded settlements with thirteen other nations. Of the $10,102,000,000 principal of the debt, the settlements represent $9,811,094,034, of the principal or more than 97 per cent.

The total value of the settlements, including the funded interest, is $11,522,354,000. Of this, $565,672,542 already has been paid in accordance with the agreements.

All of the agreements have been ratified by Congress except those with France and Jugoslavia. Senator Smoot of Utah, a member of the commission, made an unsuccessful attempt yesterday to obtain ratification of the latter settlement, a vote being blocked by debate.

Four countries have not concluded settlements—Russia, Greece, Austria and Liberia. Austria has been granted a moratorium until 1943. Congress is considering proposals of Greece. Russia is not recognized and no negotiations can be conducted. The Liberian debt of $30,000 is on the books.

Shriners' Ball at Armory Tonight

Program Contains So Many Features That Entertainment Will Begin at Eight o'clock—Doors Open at Seven o'clock.

Never before in the history of the Shriner's Association has there ever attempted to stage such a monster operatic and vaudeville entertainment as they will present in the armory this evening for the benefit of the Industrial Home. The program will be under the personal direction of John P. Lewis of New York city, who will act as master of ceremonies. The magnitude of the program will astound those attending. A whole carload of art to leave New York city this afternoon on the two o'clock West Shore train, arriving in Kingston at five o'clock.

In fact, so large is the program that the Shriners have decided to start the entertainment at eight o'clock instead of nine o'clock as previously announced. They urge on their friends to bear this in mind. The doors will open at seven o'clock.

Some Notable Acts. Some of the most notable acts to be presented this evening will be Miss Anna Myers, star of the Metropolitan Opera Company, an artist of the highest ability and a rare treat for Kingston audience. That Miss Myers will make a tremendous hit this evening is without question.

Maude Hardy of the Carl Serow Variety Company is another artist of that rank and is bound to please the large audience.

George Dwyer and Magi Myers, the sunny comedians of the Keith circuit in New York, are top notches and only seen on the program of the first class theaters.

Then there will be Cooper and Rodolfo of the New York Winter Garden, a most clever pair who will make an instant hit the same as they are doing at the Winter Garden.

Another high class act will be the Metropolitan Opera. A quartet who could give a whole evening's entertainment by themselves. The Shriners feel particularly happy to be able to announce this feature.

The Homestead Singers. One of the real surprises on the program this evening will be the Homestead Singers of the Homestead School of Kingston who are making such a hit in New York. These artists will be a real eye opener to Kingstons.

Besides all the above acts, a complete show in themselves, there will be eight other big acts which will be held as a surprise to be announced from the stage this evening.

Another there will be a wonderful program containing more stars than have ever before been seen in Kingston on one program.

Then there will be B. F. Rolfe and his incomparable Palace D'O'Orchestra and Harry Maishneider and his splendid augmented Kingston Orchestra to fill in the odd moments and to make the dancing such as will long be remembered.

Everything is ready for a record breaking crowd. The armory has been thoroughly inspected, plenty of coats have been provided and the ladies have prepared an extra large amount of refreshments and lemonade. The clear booth will also contain only the choicest cigars. Everything has been done to make the affair a dazzling success. The doors open at seven o'clock. Entertainment starts at eight o'clock.

FAILS IN ATTEMPT TO REMOVE GANG LEADER. Harrisburg, Ill., Feb. 9 (AP).—An attempt to remove Charles Birger, gang leader, from the Saline county jail here to the Franklin county jail at Benton failed today when deputies of Sheriff Turner of this county refused to give him up in the absence of Turner.

When a demand for Birger was made by Sheriff James Pritchard of Franklin county, who was accompanied by Sheriff Owen Coleman of Williamson county and about two deputies, two of Turner's deputies said their superior had given instructions not to let Birger out. They said the same chairman had been permitted to take a machine and send a postal into his cell.

HEALTH BOARD LACKED QUORUM; NO MEETING. Because of the lack of a quorum of the members, the board of health did not hold its regular monthly meeting Tuesday evening. It is expected that the board will meet later in the month.

Putting Curb on
"Bootleg" Seeds

New York farmers now have it within their power to safeguard themselves against the dumping of low-grade, weed-infested seeds on their farms from unscrupulous out-of-state seedsmen, declares the state seed analyst at the Experiment Station at Geneva who calls attention to a provision in the new Federal seed law governing interstate shipments. Heretofore, says this official, New York farmers have had no recourse against fraudulent seedsmen doing business by mail order, if the sale took place outside the state. "In the past shipments of what may well be termed 'bootleg' seeds came into New York under the freedom of interstate commerce which failed to comply with the requirements of the state seed law," says the seed analyst. "Only the reliable seedsmen labeled their seeds correctly, while great quantities of low-grade seeds have been shipped into New York on the strength of well-written advertisements in the farm papers."

"Bulletin No. 504 of this station gives the facts and figures for many cases of out-of-state shipments which failed to meet the requirements of the state seed law but could not be seized because the actual sale took place outside of New York. "Fortunately, however, in the recently amended Federal Importation Act is a clause which provides that 'No person shall transport, deliver for transportation, sell or offer for sale in interstate commerce any seed which is misbranded within the meaning of this section, and shall be subject to seizure and condemnation.' "This excellent weapon against misrepresentation will only be effective to the extent that farmers, state officials, the seed trade is general, the U. S. Department of Agriculture, and other interested agencies cooperate in seeing that this protection is used to its fullest extent. The seed testing laboratory at Geneva is always at the service of the farmers of the state in testing samples or checking up on misrepresentations brought to its attention."

Dividends from Drinking Water

Industry, through taking a lesson from football, has found a new stream of wealth in drinking water. Following the example of the late Perry Haughton in using water as a restorative for jaded senses and general fatigue, plant and office executives have found that this provision for the comfort and health of their employees pays rich dividends. These dividends are realized, according to the General Health Bureau of New York, in greater productivity, lessened illness and fewer accidents.

It will be recalled that Haughton, when coach at Harvard, instituted the practice of rushing trays of water in paper cups to his wearied team. The cold water, it was found, acted like a tonic upon the gridiron warriors. After Haughton's success most of the other football coaches of the country took up the practice so that now it is a general habit.

Industrial psychologists and medical officers found even greater reason for incorporating this routine among workers in factories and offices. Their researches showed that toward the end of the morning hours, immediately after lunch and toward the close of the working day, the continued application to machine or desk duties produced a heavy fatigue.

It was during these periods of mental and physical laxity that the workers automatically slowed up their efforts. In many cases the fatigue produced a "blind spot" that often led to factory accidents, to personnel and material. These two factors, together with the lessened resistance to diseases such as colds, influenza, grip, made heavy inroads on the production sheets of large plants.

Consequently it now is accepted as a feature of effective management to relieve the fatigue of workers by sending apprentices or office boys among them with trays loaded with fresh, cold water at least three times a day. It is realized that the tollers in plants and offices will not voluntarily absent themselves from their desks or machines to take this refreshment systematically so it has been deemed expedient to serve them at their labor.

Two factors are regarded as essential in this matter of water service: that the water be pure and that it be dispensed without the danger of disease spread. So, the bucket and tin-dipper have been cast out for sanitary containers. Industry is reaping a thousandfold for this solicitude for the workers.

Flashes of Life
Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press.)
New Haven—Most of the Yale prom girls are taking identification brands home as souvenirs. As they left the ballroom between dances they highly enjoyed being rubber stamped so they could return without question. A slipper under an elm leaf was imprinted on each wrist, unless otherwise desired. Many fair guests insisted on having the design on both wrists and shoulders.

New York—A noted beauty has descended from riches to rags, if her story is correct. Mrs. Sybilla T. Pope, former actress, once chateaine of homes that cost $100,000 a year to maintain, is living in a hall room. Broke, she has only two worn dresses, and her slippers are run down at the heels. She is suing her former husband, Charles T. Pope, a broker, for support.

Baltimore—Four girls at Goucher College have been suspended for smoking, which is forbidden in dormitories along with radio, which keeps the girls up too late, and the Charleston, which shakes the pictures.

New York—George B. Cullen, president of Colgate University, is an optimist, who believes in young folks of the present day. At a dinner of the New York Alumni he recited:

"My granddad, viewing earth's worn cogs,
Said things were going to the dogs.
His granddad in his house of logs,
Said things were going to the dogs.
His granddad in his Flemish bogs,
Said things were going to the dogs.
His granddad in his old skin bogs,
Said things were going to the dogs.
There's one thing I have to state:
The dogs have had a good, long wait."

New York—There's going to be a lot of scouting in American colleges and not of football either. Manufacturers of men's clothing are already sending agents to the college to find out what the well dressed Wall Street broker will wear, and O. H. Cheney, banker, predicts that makers of gowns will follow suit.

Philadelphia—Prince William of Sweden loves prune soup. When he wants it, presto! He shall have it. He told the chef at a hotel how it was made right under his eyes. The chief ingredients naturally are prunes. Others are cherry juice, water, sage and croutons.

New York—Stella Chaliapin, 22-year-old daughter of the Metropolitan Opera basso, is selling perfume in a department store for $23 a week because she wishes financial independence. Educated abroad and by private tutors, she has ambitions to become a buyer of dresses, as she says, she has no artistic talent and just can't sit doing nothing. She thought if she got a job while father was on tour he would not object to her keeping at it. She is one of ten children. One brother is in the movies, another is to become a sculptor and younger children are studying in Europe. It happens that she got the job the same day that word came that the Bolsheriki had returned to her father his 800 acre estate in Russia they had confiscated.

Harming Fabrics for Evening Wear

Metallic Effects Are Much Affected; Softer Models Also Seen.

Evening dress for the midwinter season is, perhaps, the most elaborate and most varied of the whole year. It serves a fashion writer in the New York Times. Women of fashion must actually get together a wardrobe which will in every way meet the requirements of a metropolitan season as well as diverse needs of the Southern resorts.

Evening gowns, wraps and accessories, created for both town and resort wear, were never more engaging than those that now are being shown. Many of the designs and fabrics that are introduced in the autumn are being done in ways that are most flattering, with a few sensational favorites for which there is a sort of craze. This is evident in the armorlike spangled gowns and in the regal wraps of metal cloth, jewel studded and embroidered and usually trimmed with one of the new furs or ostrich or ermine. Each of these is designed for either town or resort, with the same attitude apparent in all of the merging season styles which permit furs for summer and crepes for winter.

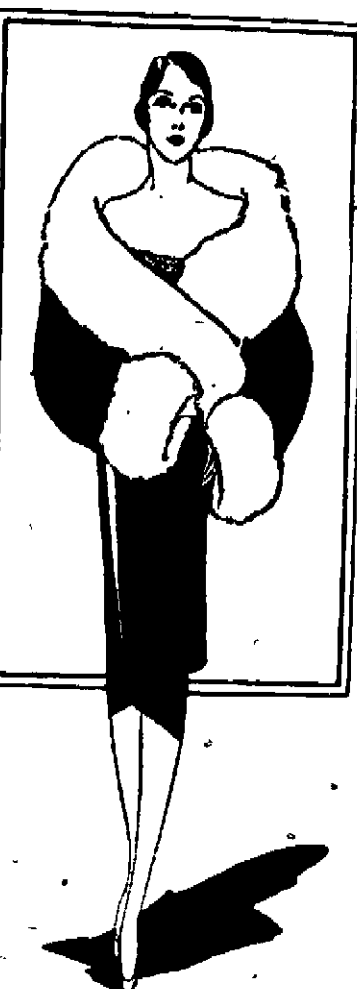

In Velvet and Fur. For formal occasions, such as the dinners and dances that will bring the mid-winter season to its peak, Paris designers have sent a number of different models in velvet and fur, the one of elegance and luxury. Drecoll is designed some of the handsomest costumes ever received from this house, one of which is of the new "transparent" velvet in shades of apricot, the material being draped in gentle lines and bordered with wide bands of fox or a subtly blended shade of beige. Molyneux has accomplished some of the most distinguished costumes for evening that have been seen for many seasons, in particular some which have been worn by the fashionable ladies of both continents.

Chiffon velvet of the finest quality and lustrous satin have been the materials, with the addition of fur and embroidery, used with taste and discrimination. Fur is used to accentuate the winter mode in evening gowns and wraps, but always with apparent restraint and not as introducing a novelty. It is shown on some beautiful quite conventional models from L. Pequin and Lucien Lelong.

The velvet and fur combination is intended distinctly for the town mode, and the relief to this mode is in some costume. Metallic fabrics in any variants are shown among the latest models, gowns and wraps designed by artists in Paris and on this side that differ not in any startling particular but quite distinctly from a general trend of the styles that are brought out earlier in the season. Vionnet has departed from the side that has come to be accepted characteristically her own in the use of lace for evening gowns, and wraps especially, in which she has much in favor at the moment for town wear, will be seen also at the Southern resorts. The solidly spangled gowns will be included in the wardrobes for Palm Beach and the other fashionable watering places, but the models that are being especially designed for the short Southern season are much lighter and softer in type. They are the crisp taffetas, the satins, volles, crepes and georgettes, which are employed by all of the best designers. Molyneux and Xieb cling to fame as a combination with satin and taffeta, to which is given a certain dash and style, but other Parisian houses are adding but a touch of metal and crystal to the lighter materials in evening gowns. Jeanne Lanvin has brought out a sensational version of her period gown, one of black taffeta, flounced from belt to hem, exceedingly bouffant, and lifted in front. The bodice remains the same plainly fitted affair, but is dropped lower at one side and the whole is given the modish metal touch with two enormous silver roses with a streamer of silver ribbon at one side of the skirt.

With this and other models from Lanvin is shown the big ruff of tulle attached to a jeweled collar at the back of the neck. An evening gown from Callot Soeurs is of pale amber satin, made on a slender silhouette heavily embroidered in gold and does to form a panel the length of the gown, divided to pass over each shoulder. With this is shown in the same collection a contrast in another Lanvin evening gown made of the artist's favorite black taffeta, elaborated with diagonal stripes of silver spangles that completely cover the skirt. The bodice of this gown is of the taffeta, untrimmed and without any shoulder straps.

Glistening Sheath Gowns. Contrasts in the evening gowns and wraps designed especially for the South are sometimes startling. Against models of the most elaborate type, sheath gowns glistening like gold and silver fish, are simple naive frocks of soft fabrics in gentle draperies. A charming dinner dress from Drecoll is made of white georgette with a scarlike drape on one shoulder that is caught with a ribbon girdle on one hip and hangs in a slight cascade to form an uneven hem line. This model has no trimming other than a band of lace in the new shade of beige at the back of the bodice.

Drecoll makes an evening dress of white-tinted chiffon with bands of broad embroidery lining the girdle and the surplice waist drapery. Molyneux, who has been doing some important things in tulleaux and elaborate evening costume this season, has swung to the opposite type in some lovely gowns of chiffon and lace. One especially attractive dinner gown is made all of black lace in tiers, with a swaying scarf drapery at one side of the back and a large chiffon flower garniture, both in yellow beige.

The long narrow scarf in a galaxy of colors and the square in quaint prints are necessary adjuncts for wear with dress, suit or coat.

Fringe Trimming Used.

Fringe is very fashionable this season, and is used with equal success on both gowns and wraps for evening. In long silk strands and in the narrow fringe of beads. On a simple cut gown of cream-pink satin Jenny was row upon row of fringe in crystal and jet beads, covering the skirt from the girdle to the hem and leaving the bodice untrimmed except at the neck and shoulders which are outlined with a single row of the beads. One of the most effective evening gowns shown among the models intended for the South is of American design in pale yellow crepe having a surplice bodice and a skirt slightly draped at one side, all trimmed with deep silk fringe in the same shade as the gown. The skirt line of the skirt forms a cascade of the fringe, which is caught with a cluster of velvet roses in deep shades of yellow in which are sprinkled upon jewels like dewdrops.

Point buttons have returned to favor and serve as fastenings for jupes and velvet frocks.

KINGSTON, N. Y. FEB 9 1927

The Advertising Club of Albuquerque, long skilled in the art of "publicity," now proposes to father a legislative bill to change the name of New Mexico to Coolidge. This calls to mind the ancient proposal to cut slices from several adjoining commonwealths and form the state of Franklin—a proposition which the distinguished Benjamin himself laughed into oblivion.

AN OBVIOUS EXPLANATION

A reasonable and obvious explanation of the increase in deaths from alcoholism or poisoned alcohol, following a sharp decrease immediately following the Volstead Law going into effect, seems to have escaped notice or comment. This explanation is that immediately following the beginning of the reign of Volstead there were such large stocks of genuine pre-war liquors on hand in possession of consumers, that few deaths resulted from moderate use, but that as these stocks became depleted the consumer was driven to resort to the poisonous liquor peddled out by bootleggers and that furthermore, as the bootlegger found the demand increasing he was less careful as to the quality of the liquor he sold.

The bootlegger has found that the demand is so great that he can get away with anything. Prohibition is resulting, to an increasing extent as time goes on, in increasing the cost of the potency and the dangerous qualities of liquor, increasing the number of deaths from alcoholism and decreasing nothing but the revenues received by the government, at the same time substituting for revenue an enormous expense incurred in vain attempts to enforce a law that cannot be enforced.

GAS WARFARE CERTAIN

American correspondents abroad note that the leading nations of Europe are competing in the development and manufacture of war gases, that in Germany two new and peculiarly deadly gases have been invented, that the French are training soldiers in the use of flame throwers, and that the Russians have accomplished wonders in their preparation for chemical warfare. American editorial writers note that the five-power agreement at the Washington Conference condemning gas has not been ratified by France and that the chief European nations have delayed to ratify the vote to outlaw chemical and bacteriological warfare by the Geneva Arms Traffic Conference. It should be further noted that, although this country was represented at that conference, the American Senate last December refused to ratify the protocol drawn up at Geneva, that our military element (with the exception of General Pershing) insists that gas is more humane than explosives, and that our chemical inventors are also busy on the job.

The truth is that all the important nations are getting ready to use gas in the next war because they know it is going to be used, even if all the treaties and protocols to the contrary receive signatures as well as lip support. The governments thus preparing are also aware that the use of perfected gases in war will inevitably lead to the dropping of deadly compounds from airplanes on cities and that civilians as well as soldiers will be exposed to both "the pestilence that walketh in darkness" and "the destruction that wasteth at noonday." Nothing would seem to be more certain than that we can escape gas only by contriving to escape war itself.

TOO GUILTY TO PUNISH.

Another interesting link in the working of the Bureau Law has developed in New York where a habitual criminal, guilty of four felonies, escaped life imprisonment because it was shown that he was guilty of an additional crime. Just four felonies would have sent him to prison for life, but five felonies, one of which he admitted, although never convicted of it or even tried for it, saved him from the extreme penalty required by the Bureau Law.

It seems that on investigation it was discovered by the court that the defendant had been committed when the case was at a very tender age—so young that he could not lawfully plead guilty—but that he pleaded guilty as to his age, pleaded guilty and was sentenced. This sentence having been illegal, although imposed in good faith because of the court's belief in a perjured statement as to the age of the prisoner does not count against him and therefore he cannot be punished for having been guilty of the four felonies that the Bureau Law says must be punished by life imprisonment.

This kind of reasoning is enough to make one's head whirl, but it is this kind of reasoning that brought about the condition that the Bureau Law seeks to cure.

SPASM OF STOMACH OR

INTESTINE.

In former days the murmurs that were heard when a valve of the heart was affected, was considered the important point in all heart ailments. Later it was found that the strength of the heart muscle with its nerve supply, was really the important factor in diagnosis and treatment.

Also the rhythm of the heart, that is its regularity, the time between the beats and so forth, is carefully noted. And now it is recognized that the intestinal canal, that is the stomach and intestine, has a regularity about its movements as it handles the food and waste from the food.

It has been found that some portions of the intestine will simply quit work for certain periods of time, and the food or waste will remain at that particular spot in the canal for minutes, perhaps hours at a time.

This is spoken of as spasm.

Thus if the spasm occurs in the stomach, the food might lie there for a long time, and with no churning movements from walls of stomach, gas from fermentation might easily be a source of great distress to the patient. The gas pressure might cause severe pain, or just a sense of weight or oppression.

If the spasm occurs in the lower end of intestinal canal, that is in the large intestine, the waste from the food will likewise give rise to distention from gas pressure.

Now these spasms can be caused by severe mental strain, which actually interferes with the regular nervous impulses which should be going down to the muscles of intestinal canal. Overloading the stomach, allowing the abdominal muscles to become weak from lack of exercise, are among the frequent causes of this spasm.

If you are troubled greatly, with gas pressure you can readily see the probable cause, and the remedy is in your own hands.

If you are too old or weak to take exercise, the wearing of an abdominal belt, and small or frequent meals should give relief.

Lying on the right side always, will likewise be of help.

Forest Story Told Polish Soloist at From Seed to Mill Schubert Concert

State Completing New Reforestation Film Which Contains Much Practical Information for Tree Planters.

Albany, Feb. 8.—The Conservation Department is just completing a new still motion picture on forestry that illustrates every phase of reforestation from the gathering of the seeds to the care of planted forests.

During the past year the demands for lectures that would give practical information on the planting of forests, where to obtain trees for planting, cost of trees and planting and other information that could be of assistance to persons and communities having non-productive land that they wanted to use for growing forests, so far exceeded the ability of the department to meet it, that Conservation Commissioner Alexander Macdonald prepared a new picture containing all this information.

A number of prints of this picture with special projectors for showing it have been purchased for the use of department employees, for Farm Bureau agents and others who are taking an active interest in reforestation.

Contains 47 Scenes.

The new picture contains 47 scenes and 52 descriptive titles. It opens with a map of New York state in 1609 when there were 20,000,000 acres of unbroken forest and no white men. The next picture shows New York in 1925 with only 2,000,000 acres of virgin forest and 11,000,000 people. The story of the causes that led to the present shortage of forest is told in succeeding pictures with an illustration of one of the remaining stands of virgin spruce on the Mt. Marcy trail.

The rapidly increasing uses of lumber and wood are shown and then the story shifts to planted forests that must hereafter replace the natural forests with a picture showing a 50-year-old forest planted on abandoned farm land.

The growth of seeds in cones, the gathering of the seeds, the preparation of seed beds in the state's nurseries, planting and cultivation of the young trees and all of the nursery operations are shown in detail up to the shipment of the tiny trees from the nurseries to be planted in new forests.

Two Important Steps.

The two vitally important steps in planting are illustrated and emphasized by titles. They are:

1. Dig a hole with a mattock.

2. Place the tree in the hole at the depth it grew.

The actual operations of crews planting trees are shown with scenes of the same areas a few years after they have been planted. The various types of soil and the varieties of trees that will make the best growth on them are shown and the growth of plantations of various kinds and at varying ages.

There are a number of pictures of forests planted by individuals, clubs and municipalities including Glens Falls and New York both of which have city forests aggregating several million trees. The site of the Roosevelt forest, planted by the state last year along the state highway where Theodore Roosevelt became President of the United States and the forest planted by the state as a memorial to Clara Barton, the founder and first president of the American Red Cross are shown with the trees just at the time of planting when they were too small to show above the ground.

These are followed by pictures of planted forests from 10 to 24 years old which illustrate the rapidity with which planted forests grow and the story is summed up in the concluding title:

It takes from 10 to 75 years to produce what we need:

Christmas trees in 7 to 10 years.

Posts in 10 to 15 years.

Box boards in 30 years.

Pulp and saw logs in 50 years.

Large saw timber in 75 years.

No Lecturer Required.

The new picture tells the complete story of reforestation in a simple and practical way and is for use either with or without a lecturer. The special projector which has been provided to go with it is small, easy of operation and can be used anywhere where there is an electric light socket. It is about the size of an ordinary desk telephone and can be operated by anyone. It is so arranged that any picture in the film can be held on the screen as long as desired so that the audience can have ample opportunity to study all the points described.

SCHOOL NO. 8 P. T. A. HOLDS INTERESTING MEETING

The Parent-Teacher Association of School No. 8, held a regular meeting at the school Tuesday afternoon.

It was an interesting meeting as usual and many things were discussed concerning the ideals for which the organization stands. It was decided to hold a cake and candy sale Friday afternoon, February 11; also to conduct the next meeting in the evening on Tuesday, March 8. This will be Father's Night. Light refreshments will be served. Two interesting papers were given at the last meeting, one by Mrs. Noyes on Lincoln and the other by Mrs. Clearwater on Washington.

"The Bound" at High School.

"The Bound" will be given as the Senior play at the Kingston High School Auditorium on Saturday evening of this week. The sort of "ice bound" that the audience will encounter there is the sort that needs far more than a warm spell of weather to thaw it out. Whether it will get thawed out will be seen on Saturday evening by a big audience of friends of the Senior Class and of the school.

Chamber Supper.

Circle No. 1 of the Immortal Lutheran Church will hold a chamber supper at the church kitchen on Friday beginning at 11 o'clock.

Farming Needs New Experts

Agricultural Experts Have Been Too Busy Studying Laws of Supply and Demand, Says Dairyman—Must Study Human Relationships.

Ithaca, N. Y., Feb. 9.—Agriculture must have trained men who can study its problems as other industries have been studying its problems, it is to assume its place along with other industries, said Fred S. Sexauer of Auburn, N. Y., executive committee of the Dairyman's League Cooperative Association, Inc., speaking at a Farmers' Week meeting at Cornell University here today.

If agriculture will not build its own organizations and train its own men, then agriculture must for the next 10 years accept 50 per cent of its per capita share of the nation's income as it has in the past 20 years," continued Mr. Sexauer. "The problems of agriculture can no longer be solved by men who give only a few minutes a day to their consideration. Agriculture's problems can only be solved by farmers' organizations of a sufficient size and with a sufficient volume of business to support an organization which can afford trained men."

Pointing out that the ills of labor, industry, public utilities and big business have been remedied by legislation, Mr. Sexauer declared that the ills of agriculture can be entirely cured by legislation, but that he does believe that the farmers' conditions can be helped by legislation.

Experts Overlook Human Element.
Enumerating reasons why agriculture has not received such assistance, Mr. Sexauer said it has been lacking, because agriculture has not recognized the inter-dependence of its branches upon each other for mutual prosperity; because industry and commerce have been little in the last seven years to bear out the statement, "that a depressed agriculture means poor business"; and because farmers have depended for guidance and leadership on such institutions as state colleges, agricultural departments and economists who have been so busy investigating and explaining laws of supply and demand that they have failed to study human relationships and contacts which have a tremendous effect on those supplies and demands. If they have studied those relationships they have been so tightly bound by influences above them that they dare not openly recommend for agriculture the remedies which industry has applied in the same troubles.

"If that latter condition be not true, then they are living in the past and are trying to apply the past to the future without recognizing that all industries are using the past to prevent repetition."

Referring to how the Dairyman's League Cooperative Association, Inc., has fulfilled its obligation to the dairy industry, Mr. Sexauer said its greatest record is its achievement in preventing extension of the milk shed. He told how the territory was rapidly spreading westward a year ago and of how the Dairyman's League activities eliminated, temporarily at least, the extension of the territory.

In doing this, said Mr. Sexauer, the league conducted a survey of the New York milk shed and proved that there was sufficient milk to provide the markets without going into the west for supplies.

MANY ACTIVITIES AT ST. MARK'S CHURCH
The supper which was to have been given in St. Mark's Church Thursday evening will be given at the parsonage instead of the church.

There being so much to consider last Sunday evening, the organization of the Christian Endeavor Society was postponed to the coming Sunday night when all the young people are asked to be present for the formation of such a society.

The annual fair committee meetings are well attended and everybody is becoming enthusiastic, which will insure success. Sunday's services will be of special interest with special exercises as it is the celebration of the birth of the founder of the A. M. E. Church.

Y. M. C. A. Auxiliary Meeting.

The Woman's Auxiliary of the Y. M. C. A. will hold a regular business meeting Friday, February 11, at 3 p. m. Mrs. Charles Hicks will lead the devotions. The program of music and reading will be in charge of Mrs. John Mullen.

Farm Animals Decrease in State

But Survey Shows Gross Value of Cattle in New York Is Greater Than Since 1908—Several Causes Contributing to Decrease.

The numbers of farm animals in New York with the exception of swine declined slightly during 1926, according to the state-federal livestock report for 1927 issued from the New York State Department of Agriculture and Markets. This was in line with general declines in all major groups of animals, except sheep and hogs, for the entire United States.

The downward decline in horses has continued, accelerated by the increasing use of tractors, trucks and automobiles, and by the decreasing acreage of farm land under cultivation. The number of horses and colts in the state on January 1, 1927, is placed at 401,000 compared with 418,000 last year, with a decline in average values per head from $111 a year to $109 now. Because of the advanced age of many horses, replacement will soon be necessary. Very few colts are now being raised in New York, and there are not enough in the United States to fully replace the normal losses of horses of working age. Many would find it a good investment to replace old horses with young ones while prices are relatively low. There now are 15,279,000 horses and colts of all ages on farms in the United States which is a decrease of 3.5 per cent from last year.

Cows Lowest Since 1920.
Cows and heifers two-years old and over kept for milk in New York have declined from 1,462,000 a year ago to 1,318,000 this year, a decrease of 10 per cent. This is the lowest number of dairy cows since 1920. The decline for the twelve principal northern dairy states, extending from Vermont to Minnesota and Iowa, averaged 2.7 per cent. These states include half of the 21-824,000 milk cows now on farms in the United States, and are the most important producers of commercial dairy products, including milk and cream. There was a decline of 1.5 per cent for the entire United States.

The number of dairy heifers one-year old and under two years which will be used to replace older cows in New York during the next two years, has increased to 178,000 compared with 168,000 last year. This is too small a number for normal replacement, since it represents only one head for each 74 head of cows, compared with a ratio of 1 to 59 in 1920, when the herds in the state were a little more than self-sustaining. The relatively poor returns from dairy farming discouraged the raising of calves for several years after the war, and the present rather low numbers of dairy cattle are in part a reflection of these conditions. There is now an upward swing from the low point of last year in the number of yearling heifers throughout the United States amounting to an increase of 4.4 per cent. It seems likely also that a larger number of young heifer calves are now being raised, the definite figures are not yet available.

Sheep and Lambs Increase.
Sheep and lambs to the number of 477,000 now on farms in New York represent a slight decrease from last year for the entire United States, the 41,309,000 head indicates an increase of 5.1 per cent during the last twelve months.

Swine, in this state, although still low in number, increased 14 per cent during the year to 284,000. This increase in number is essentially a movement in the direction of making the farms more nearly self-sustaining as to meat. Following severe reduction which took place in the numbers of swine throughout the United States after 1923 as a result of the disastrously low prices of 1920 and succeeding years an upturn in numbers has apparently again started, with a total of 52,516,000 head an increase of about one per cent during the year.

Gross Value Higher.
Somewhat lower farm values per head than a year ago for horses, swine and sheep were more than offset by gains in cattle, in New York state. The aggregate farm value of horses on January 1, 1927, was estimated at $43,793,000, of mules, $349,000; of all cattle, $134,823,000, of swine, $5,254,900 and of sheep and lambs, $5,166,000, with a total for all these groups of $189,798,900 an increase of 4.4 per cent over the $181,861,000 at which they were valued a year ago. Although only 71 per cent as great as the value in 1920, the 1927 gross value of cattle in New York is the highest since that year.

FARMER DOESN'T NEED TO MILK WITH MITTENS

Ventilation of Dairy Barn Without Draft Possible by Simple Means.

Ithaca, N. Y., Feb. 9.—Farmers who do not want to wear mittens to milk and who want their cows to have enough fresh air 23 cubic feet a minute for each cow if she is to give most milk and keep healthy—need a good system of barn ventilation.

This word comes from Professor A. M. Goodman, at the New York State College of Agriculture, who says that 2,322 cubic feet of air must enter and leave the stable each hour for each dairy cow.

"To keep the stable warm in cold weather, to avoid drafts, to keep moisture from condensing on the stable walls, and to meet the fresh air requirement seems like a great task," he says, "but the college of agriculture has found how to handle this problem and thinks that a simple and easily constructed system is most successful."

Full instructions for building a dairy-stable ventilation system are given in a new Cornell extension bulletin which will be sent to those who ask for E 151 on a postcard addressed to the college of agriculture at Ithaca, N. Y.

Demand Lessens For Apples Here

Over-Production and Decreasing Use Has Caused Troubles—Even Standard Varieties Have Sold Slowly, Says Co-op Manager.

Ithaca, N. Y., Feb. 9.—The complex apple situation in New York state is due to both over-production and a stationary or decreasing demand. Use of apples in this country is falling behind that of lettuce, oranges, grape fruit and bananas, according to T. E. Millman, manager of the Western New York Fruit Growers' Association at the twentieth annual Farmers' Week here today.

Demand, even for standard varieties of western New York apples, has been sluggish this season and prices have been low for all except McIntosh, which have been scarce.

Buyers from large cities who have in the past, come to western New York to buy either for shipment or for storage have been absent. The markets near the producing areas are particularly valuable because they buy fruit at fair prices, but, even in these, the prices have slipped because much poor fruit was offered. Growers in western New York have a wider range of possible selling methods than do growers in the Pacific northwest. Mr. Millman said they may sell by truck to nearby markets, to local dealers by consignment for sale on arrival in the big markets, and sell delivered and loaded at the shipping point.

Selling fruit at shipping point, Mr. Millman thinks offers the greatest protection to growers and is the fastest to buyers especially if the fruit is inspected at the shipping point by either state or federal fruit inspectors.

The cooperative association which he represents sells 95 per cent of its fruit by this method.

Cooperative selling is on the increase in the United States. Mr. Millman said. Early experiments have taught them lessons and now it is on a practical basis with low costs and better market outlets and with closer knowledge of trade requirements.

TICKETS ALL SOLD FOR METHODIST MEN'S DINNER.

Tickets for the annual dinner for men at Trinity Methodist Episcopal Church Friday evening of this week have all been disposed of. Only those holding tickets can be accommodated.

Many requests for tickets by men desirous of hearing Judge Hasbrouck's address on Abraham Lincoln have been made and the committee in charge regret that the capacity of the lecture room of the church could not be increased two fold for this occasion.

DROPPED TWO GRID STARS
FOR FAILURE TO PASS

Pittsburgh, Feb. 9 (P).—Two stars of last year's Washington and Jefferson College football team have been dropped from school for failure to pass semester examinations and similar fate threatens four members of the University of Pittsburgh's 1926 squad.

The W. and J. men dropped were...

Steve Day, Washington, Pa., quarterback, and Cleve Cook, Pittsburgh, backfield flash.

At Pitt, Jimmy Rooney, backfield star; Al De Molla, varsity guard, and Charles Detweiler and James Gatto, substitute linemen, either have been dropped or placed on probation. It was said, however, that the Pitt men may have a chance to become eligible for next season's team by making up their studies during the next semester or during summer school.

Ty Cobb to Play
With Athletics

"Georgia Peach" Accepts Terms of Connie Mack—Will Play High Field and Bat Third—High Salary Reported.

Philadelphia, Feb. 9 (P).—Ty Cobb will wear the uniform of the Philadelphia Athletics this year.

The veteran of 22 American League pennant campaigns has accepted the terms of Manager Connie Mack, and probably will close his baseball career as a member of Mack's team. The contract, to be formally signed today, is for the season of 1927 and Cobb has said that he will retire from the game at the close of the season.

The "Georgia Peach" announced at the Philadelphia Sports Writers' dinner, where he was a guest of honor last night, that he had accepted Mack's offer, the terms of which, he said, would have to be disclosed by the manager of the Athletics if they were to be made public. Mack declined to discuss the financial details.

Persons close to both Cobb and Mack said the contract called for $60,000—$25,000 for signing, $25,000 salary and a $10,000 bonus. Others placed the amount at $75,000. Either figure would be the highest salary ever paid a baseball player.

There had been keen rivalry between the Athletics and St. Louis Browns for Cobb's services since he was cleared of baseball scandal charges by Commissioner Landis. Other American League teams also were said to have made him offers, but Manager Mack and Manager Howley made special trips to Cobb's home in Augusta, Ga., in their efforts to get him. Howley was reported to have offered the former Detroit manager $50,000 to join the Browns.

Proper Spot, Says Cobb.

"I think this is the proper spot for me," Cobb said at his hotel today. "I am glad to be with the Athletics. They have a mighty fine chance for the pennant. I only hope that I will be spared any illness or accidents for I am just ready to show the public that I can still reach dizzy heights in baseball. Because of certain incidents that received prominence during the off season I call this 'vindication year' and I am out to play the kind of baseball that will make folks write letters to their cousins in the country."

"I never felt better. My legs are strong and I can go a fast clip from the kickoff to the finish. I have always had much admiration for Connie Mack. I am strong for his ideas and policies and am glad to lay down the managerial reins of the Detroit team and play for him this year as a private in the ranks."

Manager Mack announced that Cobb would play in right field and would be third in the batting order. With Zach Wheat at left, Simmons in center and Lamar and French in reserve, the Athletics' pilot said he had an outfield of which any club should be proud.

Sande Is Again
Leading Jockey

Earle Sande, America's noted jockey, captured 22 stakes races last year ranging from a $8,000 claiming race to the rich Riggs Memorial handicap, worth $22,450 and the Fairmount derby, valued at $24,725, setting his employer $240,375.

Alfred Johnson, who rides for Barclay Idie Hour stables, brought his master $208,810 for the year, although not winning half the stake races that Sande did.

Sande led Crusader to the tape first in the Cincinnati derby, and "out-smarted" Eric Blind to put Sande in front of Baggenbaggage, a one to two favorite in the Fairmount derby. Astride Haste, he also captured the Withers stakes.

GETTING START IN BASKET BALL

Getting Into Action Quick Is Best Plan.

There isn't a "best" way to start on the basket ball floor. Any technique that gets you into action fast is the one to use. Dodging, pivoting, turning, are the things you'll need to work on, writes Mitchell V. Charley in the American Boy Magazine.

Many fellows find the proper execution of a pivot difficult. It is not so hard, really. What it requires is a firm, well-balanced stance, a good grip on the floor with the shoes, a rapid whirl on one foot that gives you a new facing. There are a dozen kinds of pivots. The legal block pivot is the one in which you throw your hips into the hip of an attacker just as you whirl. A three-quarter pivot takes you almost all the way around and lets you pass in the direction you originally faced. Circumstances govern the kind of pivot you'll need, and you can pretty well suit your footwork to the exact case. But practice on footwork.

There are two kinds of stops, one from a regular running stride, which consists of planting the forward foot and throwing the body back—it may be combined readily with a pivot or turn—and another which is effected by a short forward jump bringing both feet down flat, body bent back.

A "set-up" which gives all-round footwork practice comes in well in training periods. Here is a good one: Put a guard at the foul line and advance an offensive man dribbling at the basket. When this man reaches the guard he may stop, pivot, or take a pivot and pass to a man trailing him. Another "set-up" has a guard to cover a man dribbling to the side line; there the man may either execute a pivot or pass to a trailer.

Every branch of offense depends on every other branch, and a player can't be at his best in shooting if he's below his best in passing, or footwork, or dribbling. That's why personal per cent has to be developed all-round—why you won't be of most offensive value to your team unless your own personal per cent in each branch is up just about as high as you can possibly bring it.

So work on all. But don't think that, because you've developed offensive ability, you're necessarily all you'll need to be.

Last year Coach Louis G. Wilke, down in Bartlesville, Okla., had nothing but small men for his high school team. Pretty good small men, some of them—fighting and hard-working. But Billy Julian and Buddy Foster, the two first string forwards, had serious defensive weaknesses, and probably, if Coach Wilke had had capable substitutes at the start of the season, he'd not have used Julian and Foster.

The difficulty with these two men was that they had a habit of rushing their opponents on defense. When they saw a man on the other side charging their way with the ball, they lunged out toward him at a terrific rate and frequently saw the opponent dribble or dodge past safely.

EMPLOYED BOYS DOWN
WHIPPETS ON "Y" COURT

The Whippets ruined their winning streak when they clashed with the Employed Boys at the Y Tuesday evening. The Y aggregation defeated the Schryver representatives 38 to 35. The success of the Whippets' adversaries was due to their excellent playing in the first frame. The Y boys were in the lead 31 to 5 at the beginning of the second half and the Whippets had severe work breaking up their lead passwork. Chief Fox was the leading scorer of the Employed Boys with 13 markers. Niles and Graney were not at fault for the defeat of their five for their scores ran 16 and 10 respectively.

COBB REPORTED TO RECEIVE $75,000

New York, Feb. 9 (P).—Ty Cobb will receive $75,000 for his services in the outfield of the Philadelphia Athletics, the New York Times says today. The contract will call for a salary of $40,000, a bonus of $25,000 for signing, and an extra $10,000 at the close of the season.

At the same time a report was current among baseball men gathered here for the major league mid-winter session that Ty Cobb, absorbed with Cobb on charges of baseball crookedness by Commissioner Landis is to receive $75,000 for his efforts this season in the outfield of the Washington Senators.

Ty Cobb Signs For One Year

Philadelphia, Feb. 9 (P).—Ty Cobb today made good his announcement of last night that he would be a member of the Philadelphia Athletics this season by signing a contract for one year.

The "Georgia Peach" annexed his signature to the document while sitting in the famous tower of Shibe Park, where Connie Mack has his private offices. Those present included the veteran Mack, Thomas S. Shibe, president of the club, John D. Shibe, business manager, baseball scribes and a number of admirers of the former Detroit player.

Both Mack and Cobb were silent as to the salary to be paid but guesses ran from $50,000 to $75,000.

If Cobb sticks to his statement made several years ago, it is the last contract he will sign as an active ball player, having stated he would retire at the end of this year and never play minor league ball.

Tribute to Loveliness

Age Does Not Wither

It was long a reproach against our countrywomen that, while America was admittedly a land of pretty girls, their beauty did not wear well; too often it vanished with their youth. But the famous Spanish artist, Zuloaga, has noted that nowadays things are different. He praises the beauty of American women, not merely of American girls, declaring indeed, with gratifying emphasis, that it is "of a kind which increases with age."

England, not the United States, has been long the country of beauty well-preserved, and the beautiful grandmothers of England—vigorous and charming women of ageless beauty, not silver-haired old ladies in capes—were long the marvel not only of traveling Americans but of the continental nations of Europe. Edward Lear, the author of "The Owl and the Pussy Cat," "The Jumblies" and much other famous and delightful nonsense, has told how, while he was staying in Malta, he was invited to a dinner party at which were present, besides British officers from the garrison, several naval officers from foreign ships lying in the harbor.

"Sitting next to the captain of an Austrian frigate," he recorded, "a German officer said to a subaltern—the conversation was about the good looks of women—I do think the English woman conserve her apterid galship longer than all the women; yes, even as far as her antics."

"The poor subaltern withered with confusion till I ventured to interpret: 'The Englishwoman preserves her appearance of youth longer than all women, even if she be old.'"

No wonder the subaltern was puzzled; not every one would have guessed as quickly as Lear did that "galship" meant girlhood and "antics" neither sportive agility nor unseemly gambols, but simply antiquity or age. —Youth's Companion.

Toys Thought Wonderful

Mechanical toys, such as trains, dancing figures and swimming ducks, were produced as scientific wonders for grownups by the great experimenters of early days instead of as playthings for children, according to a writer in the Montreal Family Herald. The more ignorant people of the time believed them to be miraculous and sometimes the makers had narrow escapes from execution as wizards. One scientist made a fly which, after a fight about the room, would return to his hand. He also produced a mechanical eagle in honor of the visit of an emperor to Nuremberg. The eagle flew several times about the emperor as he entered the city. Lifelike machines that sing naturally when wound up, are common today. The first of this type of toy was exhibited in 1851.

Hawaiian Relic

The famous Saka stone, one of the oldest relics of early Hawaiian history, after lying for many years been allowed to remain in obscurity, was not long ago moved and placed in a conspicuous position in the city of Hilo, the second city of the territory.

From the earliest ages there existed a prophecy concerning this stone to the effect that he who could turn it over would become king of the whole of the Hawaiian group. The great feat was eventually accomplished by Kamehameha the Great, then king of Hawaii, and undoubtedly inspired him to embark upon the brilliant career which finally brought the whole of the islands under his sway.

A suitable tablet commemorating the history of the relic has been placed near the stone.

London Fog

Those Londoners who speak of the present-day white mists and delirious skies as fogs are very young. In 1801 the fog was so thick during cattle show week that several cattle were suffocated by it at the Agricultural hall. A really long fog was the one which began in November, 1826, and lasted until February, 1828. Incidentally, it cost up the death rate 40 per thousand. And we cannot blame our Victorian forefathers for our fogs either. As long ago as 1200, when London was a mere hamlet of 10,000 inhabitants, the city's fog problem seemed so large that the idea of burning non-producing coal was put aside with a sigh. —London Daily Mail.

Sand Messages by Drums

The natives of equatorial Africa have an instrument called the "pandanus," made of wood, upon which they beat with wooden battens fitted with rubber. The sound can be heard from six to ten miles. They use it to send messages by this means that are interpreted by the natives at a distance.

LEAK LEADS TO SEIZURE OF 200 CASES OF CHAMPAGNE.

Whitehall, N. Y., Feb. 9 (P).—Drops of liquid that fell on the upturned face of a workman who was repairing a box car led to the seizure today of 200 cases of champagne, valued at $89,000, which were in transit from St. Mathias, P. I., to South Orange, N. J.

The car arrived here Monday night and was sidetracked for repairs. Its papers said that it contained hay, but one of the workmen assigned to fix it noticed that the hay was leaking. Some of the drops struck his mouth and he tasted them. They tasted so good that he told his boss and an investigation followed.

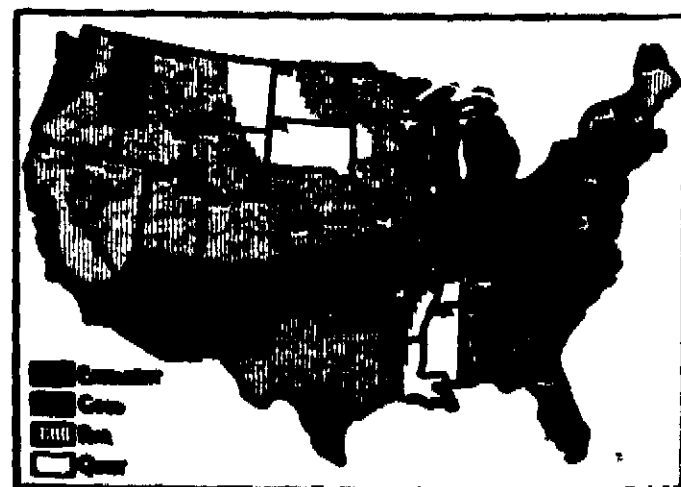

The champagne had been packed in boxes of hay, but several of the bottles had broken.

Ray Deane, deputy revenue collector at Rouses Point, turned the case over to the customs men at Albany, who sent agents to seize the liquor.

Jewish Farmers Forging Ahead

Jewish Agricultural Society Reports Steady Progress—Aid Given to Young Men and Entire Families.

Gabriel Davidson, general manager of the Jewish Agricultural Society, has just issued the society's twenty-seventh annual report. The report shows that the Jewish farmers in the United States are making steady progress.

The report gives a brief but comprehensive statement of the work and progress of the various departments and branch-offices through which the society operates.

The society, through its farm loan department, has since 1900, granted a total of $3,360 loans, aggregating $5,310,315, covering 40 states. Last year loans were made to 454 individual farmers located in 18 states and 3,061 persons were directly benefited. The financial service extended by the society is based on business principles, though loans are made on marginal securities, and their repayment is spread over a long period of years. There is no exaction of bonus, or commission or payment of renewal charges. This department has aided many farmers to obtain firmer foothold and has also helped numerous persons to take up agricultural pursuits.

The society's farm labor department has secured farm employment for 15,510 Jewish young men since 1908. Last year it placed 588 men as farm workers. This department affords young Jews the opportunity of acquiring practical agricultural training. Records show that many bought farms of their own after a period of service.

Placing Families on Farms.

During the past nine years 9,213 Jewish men and women, desiring to buy farms, applied to the society's farm settlement department for advice and guidance. Farms were found for 848 families of whom 398 received loans to help finance their purchase. This department is responsible for the establishment of the Toms River—Lakewood (N. J.) Settlement. It helped place there more than one hundred Jewish families, all of whom developed into successful farmers. Recently a new Jewish farming center was established, Farmingdale, N. J. Through this department the society is also carrying on fraud prevention work and waging war against land sharks and dishonest real estate agents.

The agricultural experts from the society's extension department visited 1,718 Jewish farmers during 1926. Through this system of itinerant instruction, the farmers received up to date and scientific information in the various branches of farming. During the period 1920-1926 these extension experts visited 10,691 farmers in 44 counties of 12 states. They held 982 meetings, demonstrations, sold days and extension schools. In addition, advice and aid were given to 10,326 farmers who sought individual consultation at the society's central office. This department also gave scholarships to the sons and daughters of Jewish farmers; 295 such scholarships were granted for winter courses held at the state agricultural colleges in 12 states. The department also maintains a purchasing service bureau which saved the farmers considerable sums in the purchase of supplies and materials. The department conducted an agricultural night school, gave a correspondence course and published the Jewish Farmer, the only Yiddish agricultural magazine in the world. It also published agricultural text books.

Work in Sanitation.

In 1926 the society's sanitation department inspected 789 farms in Jewish farming districts in New York, Connecticut and Massachusetts. It has promoted higher standards of rural sanitation—safeguarding farm water sources, teaching sanitary disposal methods, fighting the fly menace and protecting food supplies. It also delivered a series of sanitation lectures in the public schools of New York city.

The society also made loans for the erection of synagogues and community houses—has promoted and supported rural religious education. The society cooperates with the National Council of Jewish Women with the United Synagogue of America in advancing the social and religious phases of rural life.

The Jewish farm population in the United States has grown from barely a thousand in 1900 to an estimated population of over seventy-five thousand (75,000) in 1927. One million acres are today being farmed by Jews and the real estate and personal property value of their holdings is over $100,000,000.

The officers of the society are: Percy S. Straus, president; Lewis L. Straus, vice president; Francis F. Rosenbaum, treasurer; Reuben Arkush, secretary.

PLUTARCH.

Plutarch, Feb. 9.—The Rev. R. B. Guice of Eddyville called on some of his parishioners here on Saturday afternoon last.

The wind storm of last Thursday night did considerable damage to property in this place. The chimney was blown from the house of Oscar DeGraff and part of the roof of Mr. Salerno's barn blew off. Henry McCormick had about a hundred dollars damage done to his buildings.

Miss Anna Aleese of New York is spending a few weeks at her home here.

Mr. and Mrs. Hudson Cowert of Lloyd were recent visitors with Mr. and Mrs. Howard Mackey.

John Markle and son of Kingston were business visitors in town on Saturday last.

A number of friends from Lloyd and Clintondale gave Mrs. Horace Elliott a birthday surprise on Thursday night last. Every one had a fine time but found it pretty windy weather going home.

Mr. Aleese is very ill in a New York hospital. Not much hopes are entertained for his recovery. His wife went down to New York on Sunday to be near him.

Adolph Lilberg, and friend of Lloyd were visitors in town Sunday.

Get Less Cream From Cold Milk

Separator Will Not Work So Well if Temperature is Low or if It Runs Slowly—90 Degrees F. Best.

Ithaca, N. Y., Feb. 9.—Milk that is separated on the farm should be separated while it is still warm and while the fat will flow readily through the machine. The temperature should be 85 degrees or more for the average separator and, ordinarily, milk will separate better if it is 90 degrees or higher.

This is a statement of Professor E. S. Guthrie, of the dairy department at the New York State College of Agriculture here, who will show the effect of temperature of milk on the way it separates on Tuesday afternoon, February 8, of Farmers' Week. When the temperature gets down to 80 degrees or 55 degrees F. or lower, the cream leaves the bowl. This naturally gives richer cream, but it also leaves more fat in the skim milk.

The speed of the machine also influences the amount of fat removed from milk in separating, but, especially in winter, temperature usually causes greater variations. Speed is probably the difficulty in summer, however, he says.

Your Income Tax

Deductions for depreciation form an important item in the returns of many taxpayers, and are the subject of frequent inquiries. The word "depreciation" is not used by the revenue act of 1926, which provides for a "reasonable allowance for the exhaustion, wear, and tear of property used in the trade or business, including a reasonable allowance for obsolescence." For convenience, such allowance usually is referred to by regulations relating to the income tax as depreciation.

In claiming a deduction for depreciation several fundamental principles must be observed. The deduction must be confined to property actually used in the trade, business, profession, or vocation. In general, it applies to the taxpayer's capital assets—buildings, machinery, etc.—the cost of which can not be deducted as a business expense. A building or machine gradually becomes old and worn out. On account of this depreciation the value of such assets is decreased. A loss is hereby sustained for which the taxpayer is entitled to recognition in making his return of income.

Depreciation may be claimed in all business property, which includes not only buildings and machinery of a permanent character, but automobiles, farm tractors, mine, and mill equipment, office furniture, and books. A lawyer, doctor, or other professional man may not charge

TALKS TO ROTARY CLUB

The speaker at the Rotary Club luncheon this week was E. J. Gault, field secretary of the Educational Reform of the Y. M. C. A. National Council, a fluent, impressive and earnest gentleman whose topic was "A New Day in Business Education." Mr. Gault emphasized the constant progress of and change in business methods, necessitated by invention, evolution and revolution. People are urged to face a new day and always will have to face a new day, as the world progresses and men must qualify themselves to face the next step in business and social revolution that the world will take. Just as the day of the horse drawn vehicle has passed so will the day of other apparently well settled industries pass and men must be alert to meet the new conditions. One of the next industrial revolutions, the speaker predicted, would be the abolition of typesetting machinery, as in ten years there would not be a line of type set either by hand or machine. Just how this is to be brought about Mr. Gault did not state.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Feb. 9 (AP).—A wide open break in the railroad shares, after early strength in which about a dozen issues had been elevated to new high records, unsettled today's stock market. The reaction was started by bear traders, who acted on the theory that speculation in many of the low priced rails had been carried to excess. Trading was in tremendous volume.

Wheeling and Lake Erie common, which established a new high record at 130 yesterday, broke from 105 to 66 1/2, when it became apparent that the recent tension in that issue had been lifted. The preferred dropped about ten points. Western Maryland common broke over 14 points, the preferred 9 1/2, and Chicago Great Western common and preferred, Kansas City Southern, Pittsburgh and West Virginia and Wabash sold down 4 to 7 points, with a number of others yielding 2 points or more.

Industrials yielded with the rails, but the breaks were not as large. Remington Typewriter was hammered down 12 points but the losses in the others were held to from 1 to 4 points.

The day's trade news was largely favorable. Weekly steel reviews reported a further increase in operations, directors of the Continental Oil Company increased the annual dividend from $1 to $1.20, and the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey increased gasoline prices in Maryland and the District of Columbia, with another advance announced by the Standard Oil Company of New York for tomorrow.

St. Mary's Junior Dramatic Club will present the rural musical comedy, "Hinky Doodle Town," in St. Mary's School Hall, Friday, February 11, for the adult members of the parish and their many friends among the public to whom they extend a cordial invitation; and again on the afternoon of February 13 for the school children who are asked to kindly attend this performance when a special price will be made for their convenience. By attending the matinee the children will also assist in the seating problem for a large audience is expected.

The children promise a delightful performance to their friends as they have been laboring intensely and have made much progress under the direction of their coach, Mrs. E. P. Ward, who is delighted with their accomplishments.

"How Old Is Ann?"

The question, "How Old Is Ann?" which was at one time the catch phrase of the day, originated in a puzzle concocted by Sam Lloyd, the famous man, according to his own confession in an article in Liberty. The puzzle which was responsible for the phrase is as follows: "The combined ages of Mary and Ann are forty-four years. Mary is twice as old as Ann was when Mary was half as old as Ann will be when Ann is three times as old as Mary was when Mary was three times as old as Ann. How old is Ann?"

Selfish Sinners

Men who walk on tiptoe all through life, holding up their skirts for fear they shall touch their fellows—who are delicate and refined in feeling, and who ring all the bells of taste high up in their own beery where no one else can hear them, these dainty fools are the greatest sinners of all, for they use their higher faculties to serve the devil with.—Herald Ward Beecher.

THE COOKING TOP

The entire cooking top—frame, lids, anchor plates, reservoir top and frame are malleable. This fire surface can be heated through quickly with a minimum of fuel thus obtaining maximum efficiency in range operation. The economy of this feature is immediately apparent.

Breakage and damage in shipment or in use is eliminated due to the strength of this material without adding excessive weight to the range. This construction also makes it possible to draw the top frame down firmly against the stove body and be riveted permanently tight, preventing any leakage of false cold air drafts at this point.

THE FIREBOX

The entire firebox of the MOHICAN Range—grates, lining, grate rests, etc., are made of best quality grey iron. Here the use of malleable iron would be of no advantage, no attempt is made to heat through these castings as in the case of the range top. Durability of the firebox is necessary but not strength as in the dome and hinges which are subject to strain, may is a tight fitting firebox essential or even practical. On the contrary, castings are fitted loose and proper space is left for expansion. Malleable iron is used in Shaker, Draft and Ash Pit Doors, Frames and Hinges, as elimination of breakage is also most important at these points.

THE OVEN

The oven proper is made of heavy steel plates which transmit heat readily. These walls are riveted tightly together and require permanent tight joints about the door opening, between oven frame and body. This is the vital spot where leakage must be prevented to avoid loss of heat, waste of fuel and irregular oven temperatures. The oven frames of the MOHICAN being malleable, are riveted permanently to both the oven and body steel without any open joints. The door hinges, frames and staves are also malleable.

The outside enamel armor is made of separate sheets from the inner body wall proper. This is held in place with concealed bolts and clips forming additional insulation with the dead air space between these two body walls—thus serving a dual purpose of improving both the appearance and efficiency of the range. The oven door hinges and catches are all malleable, a protection against breakage in both shipping and in use. These ranges shown in our Show Department.

Two hundred and fifty customers using these ranges today.

LAST NIGHT
on the RADIO

If one did not mind a little static, reception Tuesday afternoon and evening was just about perfect. From Montreal to Mexico City, stations could be tuned in easily—almost too easily, as for a time tuning was very broad. One queer combination was Frank Dole's talk on does at WJZ at first spreading over about 20 numbers and then mungling with orchestral music from WLSE, which seemed to be from five to ten meters off its wave. WLW overwhelmed all interference but WLWL and WMHF had a Kilkenny cat fight, so that excepting their squeals instead of two stations there wasn't any. KDKA was in great form the entire evening.

The squeal center around 340 meters, where WJZ, WJAX, WMCA, KFAB and nobody knows how many more have been squealing at one another, has been intensified by the addition of WOKT, at Rochester, N. Y.

What was WGY trying to do at 4:10 Tuesday afternoon? The carrier wave was on and faint and far away voices could be heard.

WDBZ will broadcast a Boy Scout program from 7 to 7:30 this evening. The broadcast of Shriners' Ball music, announced yesterday, is not likely to take place, owing to the uncertainty of the hour at which the program will begin.

These Dresses are not old stock. Everyone is brand new—new in fabric and color and style conception and each one is beautifully tailored. Silks, velvets, jerseys and tulle.
